

SECTION THREE.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, SUNDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1909.

SOCIETY

THERE are many people who are very careful to avoid discussion of their private affairs even when with their most intimate friends, who yet seem to throw caution to the winds when upon the street or in the cars. They speak of personal matters with a freedom that makes their conversations highly interesting, and at times highly instructive to the people who are forced to play eavesdropper, simply because the people talking seem to be entirely unconscious of every one around them.

Surely such a public conveyance as a street car is not the place for conversation about one's friends or one's business affairs, and yet one is no sooner comfortably seated in the car than some one begins a story about the luncheon from which she is just returning, and every dish upon the menu is discussed, and that in a manner not always complimentary to the hostess. The fact that the hostess attempted the luncheon when she had no maid is also commented upon, and the guests invited is another topic for the discussion. And the interesting part about it is that names are used as freely as if the persons talking were miles from any possible friends of those being talked about, and one is never left in doubt as to the subjects of the conversation.

And then there are the relatives of those conversing. The said relatives are either "perfect bears," or just the reverse, but by the time your street is called you feel so well acquainted "all of the family" that you would be justified in speaking to them without the formality of an introduction, should you ever chance to meet.

Perhaps it is only a new dress that is being planned, or a piece of furniture to be purchased, but every detail is discussed so frankly that one could easily prepare an itemized bill for the interested parties, without troubling them for further information on the subject.

Talk about the weather. If need be, speak of the beautiful buildings being erected, or about any of the time-honored and time-worn topics, but keep private affairs strictly private by refusing to talk about them in public places.

COMING EVENTS.

A dinner party will be given by Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Miller Tuesday evening at their home in East First South street.

WEEK IN SOCIETY.

Miss Hollister Hancock was the hostess at a delightful Kensington tea with which she entertained informally yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Gertrude Campbell, whose wedding takes place on Tuesday. Fifteen guests were entertained during the afternoon.

One of the prettiest of Saturdays was the tea given by Mrs. Henry Franklin Hoyt at her home in Virginia street. An autumn effect was beautifully carried out in the decorations, and a large number of guests came in during the hours from 3 to 6.

Friday afternoon the resident pupils of Rowland Hall and the faculty chartered a private car and made a trip to Emigration canyon. About fifty guests enjoyed the delightful afternoon, and the return trip was made about 7 o'clock. Saturday evening the hall was delightfully entertained by readings from southern dialect given by Mrs. William Leichart.

Mrs. George Hale was the hostess at a delightful five hundred party given Friday evening complimentary to Mrs. Rufus Johnson, who has recently returned from a two months' trip to Seattle. The parlor was decorated with pink tea roses, while pink carnations and ferns were used in the dining room, a low mound of the blossoms forming the table centerpiece. Mrs. Hale was assisted in serving by Mrs. John Reynolds. Three tables of five hundred were played during the evening, the prizes being won by Mrs. Harry Nibley and Chester O'Neill.

In honor of Miss Erma Read, who is to be an autumn bride, Miss Pease Clark entertained at a delightful card party at her home yesterday. A color scheme of red was chosen for the decorations, streamers of tiny red hearts and tiny bells being draped throughout the rooms. The tally cards were little wooden spoons, bearing the gold monograms of Miss Read and her fiancé. A cluster of red carnations graced the center of the dining table, where tea was poured by Miss Maud Clark. The bride-elect was the recipient of a kitchen shower during the afternoon, following which four tables of five hundred were played.

A delightful card party was given yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Waring, the complemented guest being Miss Naomi Van Dyke, who will be an October bride. A mound of pink dahlias decorated the dining table, while pink and white asters were used in the parlor decorations. In the library a color scheme of yellow and red was carried out with dahlias in those shades banked about the room. The tally cards were dainty figures of Cupid design. Miss Waring was assisted in receiving

Miss Lucile Burton and Miss Eva Younger entertained at an informal party in honor of Walter Burton and Ben Dansie last Tuesday evening at the Burton home at 31 South Seventh East street. The house was charmingly decorated with a profusion of leaves and flowers. In the hall and library the bright leaves of the maple were effectively used, and the color scheme of red and yellow was carried out by the use of roses and chrysanthemums in the parlor and dining room. The guests of the evening were Miss Gwen Dumbear, Miss Ruth Everett, Miss Donahue, Miss Laura Caine, Miss Vera Cutler, Miss Pay Jensen, Miss Rene Silver, Miss Vivian Baldwin, Miss Nan Clawson, Miss Amy Farnsworth, Miss Bessie Barton, Miss Hazel Barton, Miss Clara Brown, Miss Alta Young, Mr. McClain, Miss Mike Lewis, Russel Sprunt, Dick Burton, Burtis Robbins, Harry Hedger, Russell Surles, Frank Hallen, Frank Smith and C. B. Ellerbeck.

Mrs. W. S. Soley entertained the members of her sewing club at a kitchen shower given Monday afternoon in honor of Miss Gertrude Campbell, an October bride. Asters and nasturtiums were used with pretty effect in the decorations, a low mound of the blossoms decorating the dining table, where covers were laid for ten guests.

A beautifully appointed dinner was given last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Perry, Jr., in honor of out-of-town relatives, covers being laid for eleven guests. Pink and white dahlias decorated the dining room, while pink and white roses were used with pretty effect in the parlor. The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Powell Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson of Glenwood, Mrs. Iles of Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. James Killion of Blackfoot, Ida, Mr. and Mrs. William Hughes and Mrs. C. J. Mitchell of Salt Lake.

A delightful five hundred party was that given by Mrs. Carl R. Williams Monday afternoon, when she entertained in honor of her sister, Miss Anna Williams, who is making her home with Mr. and Mrs. Williams. Purple asters and dahlias were banked in the parlor and dining rooms, with streamers of purple ribbons draped about the rooms. The purple color scheme was effectively carried out in the tally cards, which were tied with purple bows and bore tea given Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. Dodge entertained twenty guests in honor of her mother and sister, Mrs. J. L. Kiser, and Miss Jeanette Kiser of Davenport, Ia., and Miss Isabelle Carpenter of Washington, D. C. The tea table was beautifully decorated with the season's flowers.

A delightful 500 party was that given Wednesday afternoon at the Woodruff apartments, with Mrs. George Raymond as hostess. A color scheme of red and green was carried out in the decorations, autumn leaves being massed about the rooms with pretty effect. Five tables of 500 were played, and the prizes were won by Mrs. Simon Black, Mrs. W. H. Tobias and Mrs. Eugene Kahn.

A box party was given Thursday evening at the Colonial theatre by Miss Albert Bush, who is visiting here from California. The play was followed by a supper at the Louvre.

The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. David Keith in East Sixth Temple street was the scene of a large reception given Thursday night to the guests of the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

The house was charmingly decorated throughout in a profusion of autumn leaves and flowers. The bright leaves of the maple were effectively used in the reception hall and foyer, while the library was decorated with sprays of the wild rose berries and the autumn leaves. In the drawing room a color scheme of yellow was carried out, with vases of yellow chrysanthemums placed about the room.

American Beauty roses formed the table centerpiece in the dining room, and red dahlias were also used with pretty effect. The guests were entertained with several delightful vocal solos by Mrs. C. C. Snyder, contralto, and with a number of selections by a string quartette stationed in the balcony.

About 200 guests were present during the evening. Mrs. Keith was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Byron Cummings of Salt Lake, Mrs. A. B. Corey of Ogden, Mrs. A. H. Talmage of Provo, Mrs. C. H.
